ADOLESCENT ACTIVISM AWARDS: “be the change you want to see”

CRITERIA

SRHR Africa Trust would like to celebrate young people and the role that they play in every aspect of our nation. Adolescents and young people are at the centre of driving change worldwide and in their communities.

In sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR), adolescents are users of services and health, as well as, being activists for better services and positive change. Across the country many young people volunteer their time and their energy to make health and SRHR better for other young people. At SRHR Africa Trust (SAT) we support young people like this every day. Now is your chance to help the whole country recognise and celebrate these young people with us.

During the month of International Youth Day, SRHR Africa Trust is launching the annual Adolescent Activism Awards to recognise and celebrate extraordinary

- adolescents (ages 10-18 yrs) and
- young people (ages 19-25 yrs)

who are doing extraordinary work to bring about positive changes in health and sexual and reproductive health and rights in their communities or anywhere in their country.

WHO DO YOU KNOW WHO IS MAKING A POSITIVE DIFFERENCE FOR YOUNG PEOPLE?
